

Cheri Hewlett, CPA

Technology Executive · Entrepreneur · Builder · Veteran · Speaker

"As AI takes on more of the 'what' and the 'how,' leadership becomes even more about the 'why' and the 'who.'"

About Cheri

Cheri Hewlett, CPA, is a technology executive, entrepreneur, and builder who leads with conviction, builds from scratch, and believes that how you treat people IS the strategy. Data-driven and knowledge-obsessed, she has never accepted "I can't" as an answer — teaching herself AI architectures, founding her own CPA firm, investing in real estate, and rising from customer success to Global Managing Director & SVP at BlackLine, a publicly traded fintech transforming the Office of the CFO.

A featured presenter at BlackLine Investor Day, SAP Sapphire, and BeyondTheBlack, Cheri is known for captivating audiences with the kind of energy, honesty, and unconventional thinking that stays with people long after the session ends.

01

In a World Where Technology Is Changing Everything Else

AI is taking on more of the "what" and the "how." So what's left for leaders? Everything that actually matters.

02

People First: The True Responsibility of Leadership

Organizations don't outperform because they obsess over customers. They outperform because they invest in the people serving them.

03

Built, Not Born: What Resilience Actually Requires

Resilience isn't a personality trait. It's a practice — built by surviving, rebuilding, and choosing to show up again.

04

The Chapters You Don't Put on Your Resume

Your most important career chapter is probably the one you're embarrassed to talk about.

05

Trust Is the Real Moat in AI

Everyone's asking "Can AI do this?" The better question: "Can we prove it did it right?"

06

Innovation Is Choosing the Right Problem

Most companies are solving the wrong problems faster. AI didn't fix that — it accelerated it.
